The Sorcerer.

The grand musical event of the season, and one that is looked forward to with pleasant anticipation, will be the representation, at the opera house next Tuesday evening, the 4th inst., of Gilbert and Sullivan's popular opera, the Sorcerer, by the Musical Club of Maysville. This organization, it is well-known, embraces the most cultivated musical talent in this city, to whom our citizens never fail to extend their warmest appreciation. On this occasion, as the club has generously decided to place the proceeds of the entertainment at the disposal of the Maysville Historical Society, we have no doubt, there will be even more emphatic encouragement than at the former entertainments by this popular association.

SYNOPSIS.

The plot is a very simple one, the time being the present day and the scenes are supposed to take place in the little village of Ploverleigh, England.

The curtain rises upon a group of villagers assembled on the grounds of Sir Marmaduke Pointdextre's mansion to rejoice over the coming nuptials of his son, the young Duke Alexis, and Aline, daughter of Annabella, the Lady Sangazure.

Alexis and Aline are so happy in their new found joy that they wish to see all the villagers mated, and thereupon they send for Mr. John Wellington Wells, of the firm of J. W. Wells & Co., Family Sorcerers, who mixes a love potion which they distribute through the village.

This potion has the effect of making the person who drinks of it fall in love with the first person he meets who has also tasted it and the affection is at once returned.

As a matter of course every villager meets the wrong person and although they struggle against it, fall in love.

When they find that they have caused such havoc amongst the peasantry, they call on the Sorcerer (Mr. Wells) to find out how the spell may be removed. He informs them that either Alexis or himself must yield up his life to Ahriamnes, and he leaves the question as to which it shall be in the hands of the villagers. They decide that the Sorcerer shall die. He then disappears and they all rush into the arms of their old loves and once more there is great rejoicing.

TO—

You said you'd be
As true to me
As the needle to the pole,
If I would be
As true to thee,
And I believed the whole,
I loved you true
And trusted you,
Nor for one moment dreamed,
That you would be
Untrue to me,
Nor was not what you seemed.

But now I see
That you can be,
Unfaithful and unjust,
And the castles fair
I built in air,
Have crumbled into dust.

And I regret,
But can't forget,
Though very hard I try,
For I love you still,
And always will
Be faithful till I die.
